The Passing of an Old Mansion

The last large undeveloped tract close to the downtown area and a District landmark for many years, Temple Heights, at Connecticut and Florida avenues N.W., is to be the site of a shopping center. The main part of the once fine mansion is believed to have been built in the early 1800s by Col. Michael Nourse, brother of Joseph Nourse, then Register of the Treasury. It later was the residence of Thomas P. Morgan, District Commissioner, and, subsequently, the Edward C. Dean family. In 1922, the property was bought by the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons for a memorial. A commercial syndicate took over the 10-acre tract in 1945. Above: The front porch.
